

U.S. AVIATORS HOP OFF FOR ROUND-THE-WORLD FLIGHT

THREE OF FOUR PLANES TO UNDERTAKE PERILOUS TRIP LEAVE CALIFORNIA

Six Picked Men Scheduled to Make Attempt to Set Record.

ONE SHIP DELAYED

Will Overtake Others at Seattle On Way Toward East.

Santa Monica, California, March 17.—Amid the cheers of a crowd of approximately 2,000 people, three of the four army planes which will attempt to circle the globe took off from here at 9:32 a. m. today on the first leg of their long air journey.

The fourth plane, piloted by Lieutenant Erik Nelson, did not accompany its three sister ships but will probably leave tomorrow and overtake the others when they reach Seattle.

Only three of the four planes were to make the start today, the plane piloted by Lieutenant Nelson not having been completed until yesterday. Lieutenant Nelson immediately flew the ship to San Diego for its compass swinging and was unable to return here in time for the takeoff. He will overtake the other three ships by the time they reach Seattle, Major F. L. Martin, commander of the Globemaster flight announced.

An hour before daybreak, a murky gray mist hung to the northward between the flyers and Sacramento, the end of the first "hop."

Half an hour before the scheduled starting time, the three planes were wheeled onto the starting line and working under the glare of a 2,000,000 candlepower search light the planes were fueled and the motors warmed up as keen eyed mechanics stood by listening for the slightest sound of defect.

"We are confident of completing our aim, but we will perhaps encounter every atmospheric hazard known to aviation," Major Martin said.

"We have the best equipment possible and we know we are going to win."

The complete personnel of the four planes, including Major Martin, are First Lieutenants L. H. Smith, Leigh Wade and Erik Nelson, who will pilot the planes and second Lieutenant John Harding Jr., Sergeants A. S. Turner, A. L. Harvey and Henry Ogden, mechanics.

PASSION PLAYERS MAKE EXPLANATION

Baltimore, Md., March 17.—Headed by Anton Lang, a group of the Oberammergau Passion Players in Baltimore on their tour of the country went to Washington today to ask for the aid of the German ambassador in explaining the circumstances surrounding their visit to President Coolidge Saturday.

The players are distressed to learn that reports reached the public that one of their number had presented an appeal to the President contrary to international custom.

Of the delegation which visited the White House Saturday only three understood English. It was for that reason that the explanation that the remainder of the delegation did not realize that Ludwig Nissen, of New York, Executive Chairman of the Reception Committee in this country, who had joined the players in Washington was making a forbidden address to the nation's head.

The head of the visiting villagers said that he hoped to make it plain that Mr. Nissen made his address without the authority of the Passion Players and that they had hoped only to "shake the hand of the head of the great American nation."

Washington, March 17.—Disturbed by press reports that, on Saturday he had slighted the famous Passion Players when they called at the White House, President Coolidge today made public a letter he had written to Anton Lang, leader of the Oberammergau players in which he stated that so far as the executive was concerned, there had been no discord in the Saturday reception.

The president explained to Lang that it is not permissible for the executive to receive public address from people of another nation, "unless they be presented through the usual diplomatic channels."

BE READY FOR MANY SURPRISES

You must have heard and read a lot about how good Gazette-Republican classified ads are unless this is your first day in Xenia or something like that.

But no matter how much confidence you have in these ads, you're bound to be surprised at the speed with which they get results.

Take the case of a certain Xenian leaving the city. He knew a Gazette-Republican ad would sell all of his household furniture, but he did not expect such speedy results.

The paper had not been off the press more than two or three hours and he could have sold it all over town several other prospective customers.

If YOU want a pleasant surprise, just call 111.

CRIME WAVE HITS CLEVELAND; THREE WOMEN MURDERED

Cleveland, O., Mar. 17.—A crime wave of unusual proportions marked the beginning of the week in Cleveland.

Three women were murdered a man committed suicide, and more than 100 persons were under arrest on gambling and vice charges as a result of the outbreak.

Mrs. Joseph Daxberger, 38, was beaten to death with a hammer, her body being found by neighbors lying across the bed in her home Sunday. On the floor of the room was found the body of the husband, Joseph Daxberger, 48, with two bullet wounds in the temple. A note to the "dear old world," and a holograph will leaving his meagre estate to his wife indicated that he had killed his wife and then himself in a fit of insane jealousy. The body of Mrs. Anna Young, 40, was found Sunday afternoon in her home. Her head had been almost completely severed with a razor. A few hours afterwards her husband, John Young, was arrested and will be given a hearing on a charge of murder.

Late Saturday night, Mrs. Lillian B. Smith, 23, was stabbed to death as she was returning from market. Her husband, Fred B. Smith, is being sought by police for questioning in connection with her death. The couple had separated and divorce action was pending.

COST OF BONUS TO BE TWO BILLIONS OVER TWENTY YEARS

Washington, March 17.—The report of the house ways and means committee on the new soldier bonus bill, which was presented to the house today and will be voted on Tuesday, was made public Sunday by Chairman Green, estimating the maximum cost of the measure at $2,119,000,000 spread over 20 years. The cost, the report said, could be met by anticipated savings in current expenses of the government.

A minority report signed by four Republican members of the committee—Representatives Treadway, Massachusetts, Tilsen, Connecticut, Watson, Pennsylvania, and Mills New York—attacks the giving of a bonus as an "unsound principle" and declared its cost would limit tax reduction in future years.

The bill provides for paid-up 20-year endowment life insurance policies and cash payments to veterans not entitled to more than $50 in adjusted service compensation.

Proponents of the measure predict its passage Tuesday, although a two-thirds majority will be necessary, the bill coming up under suspension of the rules which limits debate and prohibits amendments.

DAUGHERTY - BURNS IN ALLEGED CONSPIRACY GOVERNMENT CHARGES DOHENY BRIBED FALL

IMPLICATED IN CHARGES MADE IN COMMITTEE

Former Agent of Department of Justice Gives Testimony

Washington, March 17.—Marred by bitter animosities and frequent verbal clashes, the senatorial investigation of the department of justice today followed a tortuous trial of intrigue and alleged corruption that led finally to the department of justice.

Attorney General Daugherty was drawn directly into an alleged conspiracy to transport films of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight into a score of states in violation of the law by Gerald O. Holdridge, a former department of justice agent.

The connection however, was second handed as Holdridge only swore to statements repeated to him by "Jap" Muma, Cincinnati newspaperman and one of the alleged conspirators.

The trail of intrigue also involved William J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation in Daugherty's department and Burns was openly charged with transferring to foreign posts those of his agents who were "too active" in revealing the alleged film conspiracy.

Testifying in a low voice, Holdridge repeated an "inside story" of the alleged film conspiracy as related to him Muma. The story was climaxed by a flat statement that Daugherty had told Muma: "If you put this across you ought to get a big cut, not less than 50 per cent."

Based nearly all his testimony on conversation with Muma, Holdridge testified that:

- 1—Daugherty had sent Muma to Alfred R. Urion, a Washington lawyer "to get things fixed."
- 2—That the films were shown at the home of E. B. McLean in Washington with President Harding present.
- 3—That Muma conferred with Burns when department of justice agents "scared" him and later was certain there would be no more trouble.
- 4—That Agent Ralph Navarro who "scared" Muma was sent to Haiti after Muma complained against him.
- 5—That he (Holdridge) "was taken off the case," after he told Burns that the evidence involved the attorney general in the alleged conspiracy.
- 6—That the plan of transporting the fight films required definite understandings with U. S. district attorneys and "advance information on how federal judges would dispose of cases where arrests were made."

Going into detail, Holdridge bared the "inside story" of the alleged conspiracy as related to him by Muma, who termed himself the "master mind" of the deal. This story, briefly, was as follows:

Tex Rickard, P. C. Quimby, the film producer, and Muma arranged the film deal, Muma acting as go-between with the department of justice. That the deal was placed squarely before Attorney General Daugherty by Muma and met Daugherty's approval. That "goats" were chosen in various states to be arrested for the alleged conspiracy after U. S. district attorneys and federal judges were carefully chosen to handle the cases. That the alleged conspirators finally became frightened by the activity of two department of justice agents. Holdridge and Ralph Navarro, and Muma complained to Burns. As a result of this complaint both agents were transferred to other duties, leaving the alleged conspirators continue their transactions.

WOMAN WHO ACCUSES H. M. DAUGHERTY.

Miss Roxie Stinson, of Washington Court House, O., divorced wife of the late Jesse W. Smith, Attorney General Daugherty's bosom friend who killed himself in Daugherty's Washington apartment, has made sensational charges against Mr. Daugherty before the Senate investigating committee.

SENATOR FESS WILL GO TO SOUTH DAKOTA IN COOLIDGE INTERESTS

Washington, March 17.—Managers of President Coolidge's campaign for the Republican presidential nomination are preparing to meet the vigorous efforts of Senator Hiram Johnson, of California to wrest the state of South Dakota from the chief executive.

Until a fortnight ago it appeared the president would carry the state in the presidential preference primary election, March 25; by a substantial majority, but the activity of Senator Peter Norbeck and Representative Royal C. Johnson in behalf of Senator Johnson have had a marked effect, and the Coolidge managers are fearful now that the state will slip away from them.

In the hope of stopping the trend to Senator Johnson, the Coolidge forces are to send men of national prominence into the state next week to make a whirlwind finish and to try to offset the gains that the California senator is credited with having made.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis and Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, have been selected to go to South Dakota to make a number of speeches next week and it is believed they will succeed in checking the tide that apparently is running toward Senator Johnson.

COUNSEL AVERS TWO CONSPIRED TO DEFRAUD U. S.

Pomerene and Roberts Enter Action In Federal Court Monday

Los Angeles, Calif., March 17.—Bribery of former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, by Edward L. Doheny, was charged here today by the government in filing a suit in the federal court to cancel California oil leases of the Pan American Petroleum Company, obtained through Fall.

On the basis of testimony brought out in the senate's oil investigation in Washington, the government's counsel, Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, declared that Doheny and Fall conspired to defraud the United States through the leases and that Doheny paid Fall $100,000 for his services in giving the Pan American Company, of which Doheny is president, control over the oil bearing lands in naval reserve Number 1.

As in the suit filed last week in Cheyenne, Wyo., to cancel the Teapot Dome lease by Harry F. Sinclair, the government based its charge of illegality of the transaction on the ground that the executive order issued by the late President Harding on May 31, 1921, to give the secretary of the interior control of certain oil lands, was without legal authority because it was obtained through representations which were false and untrue.

"The representations made by Fall," the government bill said, "were to the effect that said order was proper, necessary and for the best interests of the government of the United States and the public, all of which representations were false, fraudulent and untrue and were at the time known to Fall as false and untrue, and were made by Fall not in good faith and for the benefit of the public interest, but for the unlawful purpose of enabling him to effect a fraudulent transfer of rights in said lands to defendants."

"Subsequent to the making the said order, Fall and Doheny did combine, confederate and conspire to defraud the United States."

Pursuant to said conspiracy it was agreed and arranged between Fall and Doheny that in the event certain rights were created by defendants, Fall was to receive certain rewards from Doheny and he did in fact, receive certain rewards from Doheny in consideration for his unlawful conduct in the furtherance of said conspiracy.

On or about November 30, 1921, in furtherance of the conspiracy between Fall and Doheny, Doheny did pay unto Fall that certain reward theretofore promised him, to wit, the sum of $100,000 lawful money of the United States of America."

With respect to the contract under which Doheny was to construct fuel oil storage facilities at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, for the navy department in return for oil taken from the California lease, the government charges that his agreement was negotiated and consummated in such a way that competitive bidding was impossible pursuant to the conspiracy above set forth."

After citing its case against the Pan American Petroleum Company, government counsel asked the court to take the following steps to restore the oil lands to the government:

- 1—Issue a temporary injunction, stopping all operations under the Doheny lease of December 11, 1922.
- 2—Appoint a receiver to control the property pending the litigation;
- 3—Grant a final injunction barring all officials and employees of the company from trespassing on the naval reserve.
- 4—Enter a decree nullifying the Doheny leases and agreement with Fall.
- 5—Order Doheny to deliver leases and agreement to the government for cancellation.
- 6—Enter a decree compelling the Pan American Company to account for all the oil and minerals it has taken from the reserve.

'NO SUCH THING AS FAILURE IN LIFE,' SAYS NEW YORK SOCIAL WORKER IN INTERVIEW

New York, March 17.—"There is no such thing as a failure in life," Miss Mary McGuire, for many years a New York social worker, made this statement today as she sat behind her desk at the joint application bureau—a new type of employment agency. She offers only employment the applicant would enjoy and in which he would be successful.

"Every man has his 'strong spot,' Miss McGuire said. "If one finds the failure's 'strong spot' the road to success is clear. This 'strong spot' may be love of family, religion, some study or hobby."

All so-called failures are the men who have attempted the jobs where they do not fit in. Soon hopes die—hope dies easily. Fear also leads to failure, as does illness.

"Overcome lost hope, fear and illness, then find a man's 'strong spot,' play on it and you have a friend and put a man on the way to success."

ARRESTED WHEN LEAVING FEDERAL PRISON ON CHARGE

Probation Officer J. E. Watts returned Sunday night from Leavenworth, Kansas, with Joseph Boroff, 35, former Xenian, wanted here on a charge of non-support.

Boroff was arrested as he was released from custody at the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, where he had served about a year's sentence for violation of the federal narcotic laws.

He will probably be arraigned before Judge J. C. Marshall in Probate Court Tuesday on the charge brought against him here, which dates back to 1920. It is the second time Boroff has been returned to this city to answer the same charge authorities say.

Boroff, a former successful insurance man in this city, deserted his wife and one child here in 1920, according to officials at Reno, Nevada, and returned to this city to face a non-support charge. Judge Marshall sentenced him to pay $10 weekly to the support of his wife and child, who now live at Rockfort, Ohio, and placed him under $1,000 to guarantee the payments, according to officials.

Boroff's father furnished the bond and paid the court costs connected with the case, but Boroff only paid one installment of the support money. Later his father was sued on the bond. Authorities learned a year ago that Boroff had been arrested by federal authorities on a charge of selling narcotics and sentenced to the Leavenworth prison.

MAN WHO DIED OF BURNS THOUGHT FORMER XENIAN

Charles Rickard, 40, of Germantown, who died from burns at Middletown Friday, is believed to be a former Xenian.

Friends here of Charles Rickard, a former employee of the general offices of The Hoover and Allison Company in this city, say they believe the former Xenian and the man who received the fatal burns at Middletown Friday are the same.

Rickard had been employed by the American Rolling Mills Company at Middletown eight months, training for the position of foreman. He was cleaning stack soot from an open air furnace Friday afternoon when a back draft caught his clothing. He ran and the air fanned the flames so that when fellow employees reached him he was critically burned all over the body.

He was removed to the Armeo Hospital, where he lived several hours and was conscious up to ten minutes before his death, which took place at 9:55 o'clock. He is survived by his widow and three children, who were with him when he died.

Advices from Middletown say Rickard was one of the best liked employees of the company there and was considered a promising candidate for promotion. Friends of the former Xenian say he was employed by the Ohio Rate Company until less than a year ago when he left the employ of that company to take another position.

Relatives of Mrs. Rickard live at Germantown. It is said. When here the Rickards lived on North Gallo-way Street and Mr. Rickard sang in the choir of the First Reformed Church.

WATHING OHIO AT WASHINGTON

BY ALFRED P. RECK

Denouncing as a disgrace to America, Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Yellow Springs, declared on the floor of the senate that the recent investigations demonstrate that we have reached a point where the only safety to a man in life is to be a pauper and a nonentity.

He was referring to the recent attacks on Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, of Washington, C. H. and Columbus. Senator Fess said that the impeachment proceedings against the attorney general some months ago was not a whitewash but a full and impartial hearing, and the exoneration of Daugherty was justified.

In an attempt to secure a fair trial for the Attorney General, Senator Frank B. Willis, of Delaware, faced one of the heaviest verbal barrages ever directed at a Republican member from the Democratic side of the senate. For over two hours the senior senator from Ohio stood his ground and gave and took with the tenacity of a professional pugilist.

Senator Willis made it clear, however, that his one interest was to secure a fair committee and then leave it up to that committee to determine whether or not acts of the department of justice justifiably invited criticism. At the same time that Senator Wheeler, of Montana, was criticizing the attorney general because no progress had been made in the Veterans' Bureau investigation, a special grand jury in Chicago was returning an indictment as the result of presentations made by the department of justice. Senator Willis made Wheeler's proposals so ridiculous that even the Democratic members would not stand for the unjustifiable suggestions and they were stricken out of the record at the motion of the Democratic floor leader, himself.

At the conclusion of the battle of wits, senators on both sides of the chamber congratulated Senator Willis on his ability to take care of himself in one of the most trying debates recently seen in the senate's rather hysterical consideration of oil leasing matters.

Speaking on the floor of the house of representatives, Congressman John L. Cable, of Lima, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, advocated the formation of an "American bloc" to combat the "foreign bloc" which is working to retard the passage of the Johnson Immigration bill, of which he is one of the authors.

Democratic as well as Republican members admitted that they had received letters threatening them with political defeat if they voted or supported the restrictive immigration bill.

Congressman Cable cited articles from various newspapers throughout the country in which the activities of the foreign bloc were mentioned. "That is a difficult situation," declared Mr. Cable, "and the Democrats as well as the Republicans must unite in forming an American bloc so that neither need yield to foreign influence."

An example was cited by the congressman from the fourth district when he read into the record a telegram from Major Henry Curran, commissioner of immigration at Ellis Island, in which the commissioner said that a certain congressman demanded the admission of a Greek immigrant being detained on the island because 8,000 Greek votes in his district depended upon it.

"Just what is a 'Greek vote' in America?" asked Mr. Cable.

"What right has it to be here?"

In concluding his remarks, Congressman Cable stated, "Partisan politics have no place in this patriotic question. It is a nonpartisan issue, and it is a serious matter of determining who may come into the United States and who may become American citizens. Congress must not be dictated to by a foreign bloc in framing our laws."

A stirring denunciation of the apparently growing disregard for the law was made by Congressman John G. Cooper, of Youngstown, when he ripped prohibition law violators up the front and down the back. His enforcement speech, which was made on the floor of the House, came at an opportune moment as Senator Greene, of Vermont, is lying in a local hospital battling for his life as the result of being wounded by a bullet fired in a fight between bootleggers and enforcement agents.

It was pointed out by the Youngstown member that during the past two or three years between thirty-five and fifty officers of the law have been killed by bootleggers and rum-runners. "For the sake of our country, for the sake of clean politics and good government, for the sake of the home, for humanity's sake, let all good citizens unite and put an end to the present wanton disregard for the constitution and the law of the land," was Mr. Cooper's plea.

Congressman Frank Murphy, of Steubenville, advocates the payment of a bonus to the veterans of the World War in the form of an insurance policy as proposed by Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York. These policies would be in the endowment form based on length of service with a maximum of $1,600. According to Congressman Murphy the total cost of this plan of insurance would be less than the cost of two months of war if it had continued.

Rallying to the support of his colleague's proposed workmen's compensation bill, Congressman William M. Morgan, of Newark, will appear before the house District of Columbia committee in support of the measure introduced by Congressman Roy G. Fitzgerald, of Dayton. The bill provides an indemnity for workers in the District of Columbia but is expected to be used as a model for the various States to follow.

Congressman Morgan is one of the originators of state workmen's compensation legislation and was instrumental in securing the law at present in operation in Ohio. "I consider it an economic measure," said Mr. Morgan, "as it saves both employer and employee profits collected by insurance companies. I also consider it beneficial as it brings employer and employee into closer relation from the development of a common interest in each other's welfare. I hope to see the Fitzgerald bill become a law."

Samuel Gomphers, President of the National Federation of Labor, will also appear before the committee to advocate the passage of the bill.

Two Dayton men have enlisted the aid of Congressman Roy G. Fitzgerald in order to secure permission from the state department to transport two commercial airplanes across the Mexican border so that they might set up an air transportation company in our neighbor republic on the south. They are Bernard Whelan and Howard Rinehart.

They plan to furnish aerial transportation from Tia Juana to Mexico and Ensenada, Mexico. The Mexican authorities have granted them the necessary permission and their only difficulty now is to pass the U. S. Customs officials with the two plans destined for immediate use.

THIS IS NOT CLAIMING HE IS GUILTY OR INNOCENT

When John T. Adams makes a direct statement to the country, he has a fine faculty of calling a spade a spade and making what he wants to say clear, forceful and straightforward.

There may be some other Republicans who feel that Attorney General Daugherty should at this time place his resignation in the hands of the President, but that is not the way the chairman of the party views the situation. The remarkable statement which Mr. Adams issued serves to clear the way for an expression of out and out Republicanism which has been badly needed.

Mr. Adams added great emphasis to his defense of Mr. Daugherty when he said:

"This is not the time to yield to the threats of those who are conducting this campaign of political terrorism or to the demand of those who are frightened by such methods."

The chairman of the Republican national committee has definitely declared that the policy of the party is onewhich will permit no sacrifices to be made at a moment when there are signs that some of the party feels weak in the knees. The intrepid ring of that statement will do much to place new fibre in the political conduct of the Republican party.

It seems his home folks at Washington C. H. have confidence in Daugherty. The following telegram was sent from them Friday to Senator Brookhart, Chairman of the Senate committee investigating Attorney-General Harry Daugherty. "We would welcome the opportunity to appear before your committee and give testimony concerning the attitude and views of the citizens of Mr. Daugherty's home community."

SOME THINGS BETTER THAN "EXPEDIENCY"

There are some things in American politics and public life more important than temporary expediency.

There are things more important even than party success, if that success involves the betrayal of justice even to a single individual.

This nation has been too much governed by fear in recent years. There has been too much yielding by men posing as leaders, to mere clamor, regardless of the thought or motive behind that clamor.

False issues are often raised by the mere process of noise making. Outcry is organized against some individual or institution, and the pussy-footing type of politician is ready to unload his convictions, or his sense of justice as excess baggage in the hope of calming the claque.

Great men do not proceed on any such principle. They do not throw principles or persons to the dogs merely because for the time being that would appear to be the popular thing. Pontius Pilate who saw no wrong in the Redeemer, but was willing to turn him over to the mob for crucifixion merely because the crowd howled long enough for the sacrifice, is not rated as one of the world's heroes or sages.

Honesty in politics is the best expediency. The political leader who has never learned to weather a storm is not a safe pilot either in clear or rough weather.

What is needed in American public life today more than all else is not so much more brains as more courage. And, after all, there is nothing the American people so much admire as courage.

They admire a Washington, who fought hardest when things looked blackest; a Jackson, who told an inquisitor that if he and his friends did not like Old Hickory's laws on tariff they could support some other candidate, a Lincoln, who made a speech he knew would defeat him for senator because he was farseeing enough to see that it would defeat Douglas for President a little later; a McKinley who went willingly to defeat for a principle in 1892 and immediately thereafter affirmed anew his allegiance to what seemed an unpopular issue and declared that "the Republican party stands by its principles, in defeat as well as in victory."

And so they like the calm courage of Calvin Coolidge, who now sits unmoved by hysteria or hullabaloo in the invincible confidence of rightness. Throwing officials to the wolves in the hope that with their appetite gorged the pack will desist from pursuit is not in his line.

What is there within a man, either in public or private life, that can compensate him for the loss of his own self-respect involved in asking an official to abdicate his office and take an undeserved badge of dishonor "for the party's sake". A party capable of demanding or accepting such a sacrifice in the vain hope of saving itself from criticism would not be worth saving.

Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

ONLY THE SPIRIT STAYS YOUNG
I'd like to be a father like the orators describe.
A marble-playing father and the leader of the tribe.
A baseball-playing father, and a burlesque-jumping dad.
But the only time I tried it all the doctors called me mad.

I thought that I could do it, they were tricks that once I knew.
The brave old heart was willing, but I missed the ball he threw.
And I couldn't catch the humor of a little casual cry:
"Hully Gee! you curved one that time, an' you socked him in the eye!"

I tackled playing marbles, for I once knew how to shoot.
But the little fellows cleaned me, and I spoiled a business suit.
And the little fellows chuckled as they watched me stoop to play.
And I heard a demon whisper: "Hey, his stummick's in the way!"

They led me to the hurdles and they put me in a race.

REACH

We stumble when our hands are low and our bodies wander in listless forgetfulness. It is only when we have resolved to reach, to look high, and to ride our faith as we would ride a steed, that we move from the shadows of our own failures.

The child reaches because it instinctively understands that it has not sufficient strength of its own—and so reaches for a stronger hand. That's one reason why there is a God in the world—so that we may reach for Him and find in His love and mercy something that we wholly lack, but desire very much. And so we reach!

Those who really grasp the most are those who reach the farthest.

There are many of us who reach, hoping to grasp something we very much desire, but do not succeed. But I would not call this failure in any sense of the word. Rather would I call it the solid process by which alone we are able to grow and progress.

Reach, stretch, open your eyes to the world. Neither the world nor you are bigger than you think each to be.

Not to strive at all is to fail ingloriously. But to strive and fail—ah, that is something to inspire heroes and heroines!

Napoleon reached, but his reach was to glorify himself—and so we view his achievements through a fog of tears and fallen lives.

The mother is always reaching for something to give to those who are a part of her very life. Hers is a surrender of love, of self, of pleasure and comfort that each may be enlarged in a bigger sense. Reach! Not in one place, but in dozens and dozens. There is one thing you will learn and that is that your ability to reach will never leave you if you use it.

TO PRESENT "MAN WITHOUT COUNTRY" HERE TWO DAYS

Staid and hardened critics have been stirred to depths unknown by the American Legion film classic, "The Man Without a Country," which will be presented at the Xenia Opera House Thursday and Friday, Matinee and night, under the auspices of Joseph P. Foody Post, No. 95, American Legion.

The picture is a stirring patriotic drama, adapted for the screen by Anthony Paul Kelly from the original story by Dr. Edward Everett Hale. Arnold Daly, well known legitimate stage star plays the lead in the piece, and the picture introduces many historical characters.

Charles E. Graham plays the part of Aaron Burr, Duncan McRae takes the part of Alexander Hamilton, Sidney Bracey is Captain Gaultier, P. R. Scammon is Thomas Jefferson, Anna Lehr is Agnes Churchill, Mary Carr, of "Over the Hill" fame, is Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, Ralph Ince plays Abraham Lincoln and Claude Cooper is William Bayard.

The picture is produced in eight reels, directed by John W. Noble, and retains strictly to the story and careful as to historical scenes and incidents. The Burr-Hamilton duel reproduced in the picture was re-enacted at Weehawken Heights on the scene of the original duel and the pistols used were the same used by Burr and Hamilton. The historic U. S. S. "Constitution" makes its first movie appearance in the film.

Proceeds from the picture will be used by the Legion in carrying on its program of activities, including the care of the sick, disabled and needy ex-service men. All members of the post have tickets for sale or they may be obtained at Schin's drug store or Hayward's tobacco shop.

The picture will be shown each afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and at 7 and 8:30 at night, with a special orchestra for all performances. Members of Foody Post used the post banner and silk flag and a number of World War rifles in an attractive window trim to advertise the picture in the town window of the Criterion clothing store.

In a note transmitted through the French embassy here and the American refusal was transmitted to the French only this afternoon by Secretary Hughes after it had been determined that nothing could be accomplished by creating such a debt clearing house here under the direction of the world war debt funding commission.

FARM PROGRESS
ROADSIDE MARKETS
PROVIDE PROFIT
FOR MANY FARMERS

With the approach of spring comes a mental picture to thousands of farmers and farmers' wives, scattered throughout every state of the union, of a front-yard market, where vegetables, fruit and other farm produce are sold at a profit.

In numberless instances wayside markets were profitably conducted last year, and it is with the thought of these pleasantly in mind that the enterprising farm folk are planning for the coming season.

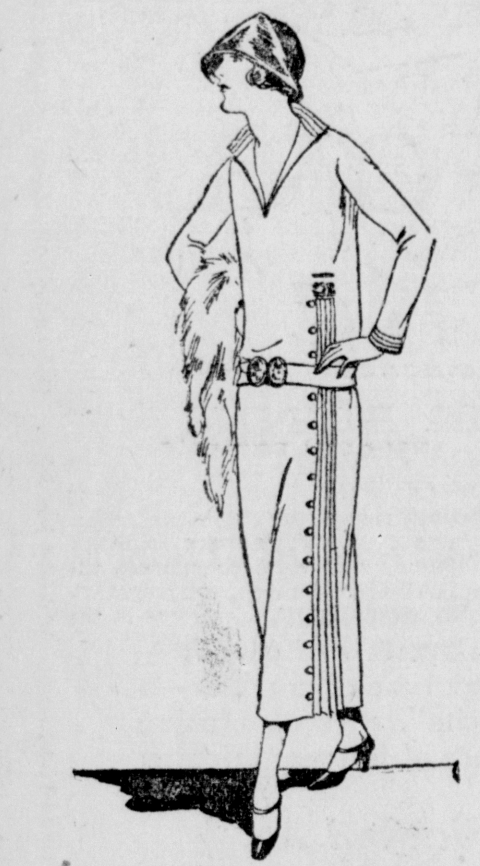

Each year there is an improvement in these roadside markets. From a crude table the first year they usually develop into a neat covered stand or permanent booth—often quite elaborate—where farm commodities of every sort may be attractively displayed and sold at a good profit.

What first started as a "pin-money" proposition has grown into a business of real moment, in very many cases furnishing the farmer with his largest source of revenue, often running into thousands of dollars annually.

Wayside markets are a success because they furnish the quickest and best contact between grower and consumer. This contact often is expedited by advertising on the part of the farmer, either in the nearby village or city newspaper.

Styles
BY LENORE

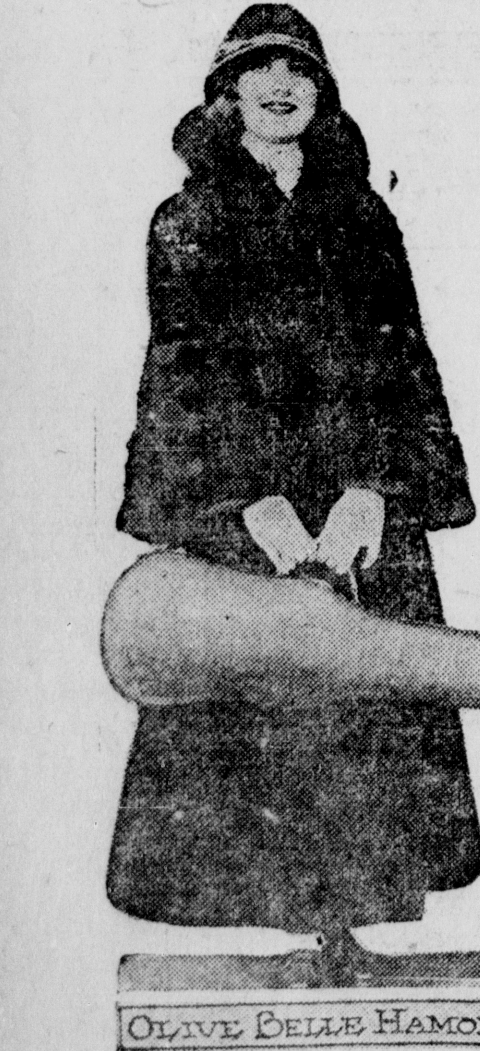

This woman we have sketched to-day wears a dress of rust colored charmeuse—such a simple dress, with a narrow pleated panel to give an effect of slowness, a tiny embroidered "nickel" or carefree pocket, and novelty buttons and buckle to give the needed touch of color, which is also accentuated by the colors of the embroidered pocket. The V-shaped neck with convertible collar is also a becoming feature, and the long widening ed sleeve is one that is often seen in dresses designed for street wear. Both are given character by pleated trimming.

Of course many admire but few can wear the peculiar shade of reddish brown which Dame Fashion is pleased to feature this season. The various shades of light tan and beige are safer, if a light dress is required. And of course black and dark blue are particularly successful this spring, with discreet suggestions of scarlet, particularly in silk alpaca.

Jamon's Daughter Will Fight for His Name.

Here is Olive Belle Hamon, sixteen-year-old daughter of the late Jake Hamon, Oklahoma oil magnate, as she arrived in Washington, with her violin as her only baggage. She ran away from her home in Chicago determined, she announced, to go before the Senate Investigating Committee to clear her father of the charge that the Republican nomination for the Presidency in 1920 was offered Leonard Wood if he would agree to make Hamon his Secretary of the Interior. The committee refused to hear her.

Successor of Lenin Incurably Ill.

A. I. RYKOV

Alexiev Ivanovitch Rokov, successor of Nikolai Lenin as President of the Council of Peoples' Commissars, in the Soviet Government, is suffering from an incurable kidney disease, and it is unlikely that he will ever be able to assume his official duties, according to reports reaching Copenhagen from Moscow. Shortly after his election Rokov left Moscow for a long rest. He has not returned.

WARNING AGAINST INCREASES ISSUED BY STATE AUDITOR

Columbus, O., March 17—Warning against any increase in the volume of business in state departments until the state legislature provides, through appropriations for an increased personnel, State Auditor Tracy today estimated that the cash balance in the state treasury, as of June 30, next, will total $1,645,618.95.

The state auditor announced that disbursements will be made for the present school year from the $750,325 state equalization fund, for the benefit of financially stricken school districts, provided for in addition to the state's general revenue fund, amounting to $2,000,000, if vouchers for such purpose are presented by the state department of education. Authority, he pointed out, for this disbursement, is found in a recent ruling by Attorney General Crabbe.

MONEY
AT WORK

Interest is compensation or hire for the use of money. Money's ability to earn interest is governed by law.

A man may use his money in a business of his own, or he may let it work for the other fellow and be paid for the work it does.

This recompense varies according to the amount involved, the period of the loan, and the risk of loss. The rate set by law is usually 6 per cent, and the legal rate governs where there is no contrary agreement or provision. Parties in most places are allowed to contract for higher rates, but there is a usual limit of 8 or 10 per cent.

Usury means an illegal rate of interest. Every business man should know the laws in regard to usury for his jurisdiction. Compound interest is not usury, but compound interest will not be allowed by a court of equity.

Pawn brokers are allowed to charge usurious interest. It seems unjust, as they are amply secured and their patrons are generally poor ignorant people.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Evil Shepherd

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

"Do they form part of your case?" Francis persisted.

Shopland stepped back.

"Mr. Ledsam," he said, "I told you, some little time ago, that so far as this particular case was concerned I had no confidences to share with you. I am sorry that you saw that letter. Since you did, however, I hope you will not take it as a liberty from one in my position if I advise you most strenuously to do nothing which might impede the course of the law. Good day, sir!"

Francis, in that pleasant half-hour before dinner which he spent in Margaret's sitting-room, spoke to her of her father's kindness to the carter's horse, of the dogs' home near Wardour street. She listened sympathetically to his description of the place.

"I am not in any way surprised at the incident," she remarked. "My father spends at least an hour of every day, when he is down at Hatch End, amongst the horses, and every time a fresh creak is brought down, he is as interested as though it were a new toy."

"It is a remarkable trait in a very remarkable character," Francis commented.

"I could tell you many things that would surprise you," Margaret continued. "One night, for instance, when we were staying at the Sanctuary, he and I were going out to dine with some neighbors and he heard a cat mewling in the hedge somewhere. He stopped the car, got out himself, found that the cat had been caught in a trap, released it, and sent me on to the dinner alone whilst he took the animal back to the veterinary surgeon at the Walled House. He was simply white with fury whilst he was tying up the poor thing's leg. I couldn't help asking him what he would have done if he could have found the harper who set the trap. He looked up at me and I was almost frightened. 'I should have killed him,' he said—and I believe he meant it. And, Francis, the very next day we were motoring to London and saw a terrible accident. A motor bicyclist came down a side road at full speed and ran into a motor-lorry. My father got out of the car, helped them lift the body from under the wheels of the lorry, and came back absolutely unmoved. 'Serve the silly young fool right!' was his only remark. He was so horribly callous that I could scarcely bear to sit by his side. Do you understand that?"

"It isn't easy," he admitted.

There was a knock at the door. Margaret glanced at the clock.

"Surely dinner can't be served already!" she exclaimed. "Come in."

Very much to their surprise, it was Sir Timothy himself who entered. He was in evening dress and wearing several orders, one of which Francis noted with surprise.

"My apologies," he said. "Hedges told me that there were cocktails here, and as I am on my way to a rather weary dinner, I thought I might inflict myself upon you for a moment."

Margaret rose at once to her feet.

"I am a shocking hostess," she declared. "Hedges brought the things in twenty minutes ago."

She took up the silver receptacle, shook it vigorously and filled three glasses. Sir Timothy accepted his and bowed to them both.

"My best wishes," he said. "Really, when one comes to think of it, however much it may be against my inclinations I scarcely see how I shall be able to withhold my consent. I believe that you both have at heart the fair for domesticity. This little picture, and the thought of your tetea-tete dinner, almost touches me."

"Don't make fun of us, father," Margaret begged. "Tell us where you are going in all that splendor?"

Sir Timothy shrugged his shoulders.

"A month or so ago," he explained.

"I was chosen to induct a scion of royalty into the understanding of fighting as it is indulged in at the National Sporting Club. This, I suppose, is my reward—an invitation to something in the nature of a state dinner, which, to tell you the truth, I had forgotten until my secretary pointed it out to me this afternoon. I have grave fears of being bored or of misbehaving myself. I have, as Ledsam here knows, a distressing habit of truthfulness, especially to new acquaintances. However, we must hope for the best. By-the-way, Ledsam, in case you should have forgotten, I have spoken to Hedges about the '99 Claret."

"Shall we see you here later?" Margaret asked, after Francis had murmured his thanks.

"I shall probably return direct to Hatch End," Sir Timothy replied.

"There are various little matters down there which are interesting me just now—preparations for my party. Au revoir! A delicious cocktail, but I am inclined to resent the Angostura."

He sauntered out, after a glance at the clock. They heard his footsteps as he descended the stairs.

"Tell me, what manner of a man is your father?" Francis asked impulsively.

"I am his daughter and I do not know," Margaret answered. "Before he came, I was going to speak to you of a strange misunderstanding which has existed between us and which has just been removed. Now I have a fancy to leave it until later. You will not mind?"

"When you choose," Francis assented. "Nothing will make any difference. We are past the days when fathers count seriously in the things that exist between two people like you and me, who have felt life. Whatever your father may be, whatever he may turn out to be, you are the woman I love—you are the woman who is going to be my wife."

She leaned towards him for a moment.

"You have an amazing gift," she whispered, "of saying just the thing one loves to hear in the way that convinces."

Mar. 17.—Police today have no clues to the yeggs who early Sunday morning looted a safe in the Levinson department store here and made their get-away with $1,500 in currency and securities. Wooden shoes

THE peasants in America do not wear wooden shoes at all, even in the fields!" writes Abbe Pierre, of Gascony. "No, the peasants there wear shoes of leather, although I should think that sabots would be much more serviceable, not only on the roads, but plowing * * *. And wooden shoes are far less expensive. Ah, that America is an extravagant country!"

Advertisements haven't yet taken the heavy wooden shoes from Gascon feet—nor yet the heavy wooden shoes from Gascon minds. Gascony thinks in the past. America in the future.

Advertisements make the difference. They crisscross improvements in countless directions across the miles. They distribute Fords, furnaces and electric lights so widely that foreigners think you are extravagant to enjoy them. They put you in touch with the latest conveniences. They help so many people enjoy those conveniences that their cost to you is small.

You read advertisements to link yourself with the best—to substitute speed for the shambling progress you otherwise would have to make in the lonely wooden shoes of isolation.

Do you read them regularly? Good habits pay.

Advertisements are a reliable buying guide obtainable in no other way.
